

Code of Conduct TSEA Link

Speak English when in the presence of international members. Use English in chats that have international members.

No explicit content may be shared in the Link communication groups or servers, unless this is from a known news website which provides a content-warning.

Passionate discussion is okay, personal attacks are not.

Be thoughtful of each other; what one person may perceive as a joke might be very offensive to another. Also realise that emotion and body language cannot fully be communicated through text.

If you want to start a discussion about a sensitive subject that may trigger some people, give a trigger warning first.

Please do not discuss the usage or procurement of drugs on the official Link platforms.

Don't share any invite links to Link communication groups or servers to non-Link members.

The repeated posting of a certain (type of) message will be seen as spam and will not be accepted.

Don't drink so much that you become unwell during any Link event. It lacks respect towards the accommodation and it's distasteful towards the other members.

Be reasonable and don't act inappropriately.
